

PETITION CONGRESS

Help end hunger, expand food access, and address climate resilience...in the 2023 Farm Bill

Far too many people experience hunger in our wealthy nation—including 12 million food-insecure children. Climate change threatens to increase these numbers—as global temperatures and extreme weather events rise, the conditions make it more difficult for farmers to grow food and for those facing hunger to get it. Our current agricultural system contributes to these joint crises—prioritizing corporations' profits over people and our planet.

The 2023 Farm Bill is a critical opportunity to improve food security and nutrition for people and promote climate resilience in the U.S. and across the world. These include:

- Expand access to SNAP and other nutrition assistance programs;
- Fund small-scale farmers, regenerative agriculture, and climate-friendly practices, from planting to packaging to delivery;
- Eliminate food waste and invest in urban agricultural projects; and,
- Protect the dignity, health, and safety of those working the land.
