

Stop the Round-ups, Detentions, and Mass Deportations Now

As a Unitarian Universalist organization, UUSJ holds that all people have inherent worth and dignity and should be treated with respect and compassion wherever possible. We envision a just, compassionate, and sustainable world community. One where all people can thrive and flourish.

For us, “all people” includes immigrants, and it guarantees their fundamental civil and human rights as well as protections under U.S. and international law. In our view, those protections are linked to a prophetic moral frame and tradition rooted in our most ancient stories of refuge and succor.

Let’s urge Congress to show mercy and compassion when and where the Executive Branch fails to do so. Congress should move swiftly to protect our workplaces, schools, hospitals, and other sensitive spaces and locations, such as houses of worship—our congregations, churches, and fellowships. Stopping the mass round-ups, detentions, and deportations will help.
