

Oppose the Budget Resolution and Associated Immigration Harms

As Unitarian Universalists, we believe that all people have inherent worth and dignity and should be treated with respect and compassion and that they have fundamental civil and human rights as well as protections under U.S. and international law. Therefore, UUSJ opposes the administration's approach to immigration, particularly family separations and mass deportations, and especially at the cost of needed human service programs.

Let's urge Congress to show mercy and compassion and refuse to fund mass roundups, detentions, and deportations. Prioritize immigration actions on immigrants who have committed serious crimes or are a threat to national security or public safety and use the savings to make food, housing and healthcare more affordable for average Americans.

This effort is a blank check of up to $200 billion to President Trump to fund his mass deportation agenda at the cost of defunding crucial and lifesaving programs that millions of Americans across the country depend on such as SNAP, CHIP, and Medicaid. This budget resolution will allocate hundreds of billions of dollars to detention and interior enforcement, including raids and deportations, while profoundly cutting vital programs for everyday Americans—going deeper with cuts than most voters imagined possible or prudent.
